Final judgments with certified proofs from Certifydoc

According to current law, photos, videos and electronic documents have very low legal relevance because their content and date can be easily manipulated. So how can I protect myself to prove the status of a property at a given time?

Without Certifydoc the documentary evidence is uncertain.

- Do my documents have sufficient probative value?
- Can they be challenged?
- Have they been manipulated?
- Can I prove that they have been created on a specific date?

With Certifydoc the answer to these questions will always be favorable to your interests, which will be very useful when negotiating with buyers, authorities, clients, tenants, owners, experts, lawyers, both in the previous negotiations and before or after a lawsuit. Having evidence with the maximum legal value (probative value) can avoid lawsuits and long conflicts that nobody wants to suffer. Certifydoc acts as an intermediary, the certifications are granted by the certification authorities of Spain and other members of the European Union, through qualified time stamping.
